

Andy Green

Executive Vice President and President, Technical Solutions

Andy Green is executive vice president of Huntington Ingalls Industries and president of HII's Technical Solutions division. Named to this position in 2016, he is responsible for HII's national security solutions provided in the areas of information technology, unmanned systems, C5ISR support, training systems, nuclear and environmental services, fleet maintenance and modernization, and logistics support.

Green previously served as corporate vice president of strategy and corporate development, and as vice president, component manufacturing, where he directed the manufacture of major components used in the construction of aircraft carriers and submarines. He joined HII in 2011 as corporate vice president of investor relations, where he was responsible for the company's relationships with Wall Street analysts and shareholders.

Before joining HII, Green served as vice president of investor relations at Celanese Corp. and was a Managing Director of High Yield Capital Markets at Wells Fargo, where he covered the defense and aerospace industry.

Prior to attending graduate school, Green was a manufacturing plant engineer at Eaton Corp. He is also a former U.S. Navy nuclear submarine officer, having served aboard the ballistic missile submarine USS Tecumseh (SSBN 628) and qualified Nuclear Engineer Officer.

He holds a bachelor's degree in systems engineering from the United States Naval Academy and an MBA from Duke University. Green serves on the Board of Directors of the Professional Services Council.

Huntington Ingalls Industries is America's largest military shipbuilding company and a provider of professional services to partners in government and industry. For more than a century, HII's Newport

News and Ingalls shipbuilding divisions in Virginia and Mississippi have built more ships in more ship classes than any other U.S. naval shipbuilder. HII's Technical Solutions division supports national security missions around the globe with unmanned systems, defense and federal solutions, and nuclear and environmental services. Headquartered in Newport News, Virginia, HII employs more than 42,000 people operating both domestically and internationally. For more information, visit:
